Senate Farm Bill Is Feared 'Unworkable'

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Knowland said today Secretary of Agriculture Benson regards the Senate approved farm bill as "unworkable."

The California senator predicted Benson will recommend a presidential veto unless the measure is modified.

Knowland talked to White House newsmen after he and other GOP congressional leaders concluded their regular weekly conference with President Eisenhower. Benson also sat in at the session.

The Senate passed the omnibus farm bill last night after loading it with amendments the administration had opposed. Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said it contains features that would warrant three or four vetoes.

The bill now goes to a Senate-House conference committee for reconciliation of the many differences in separate bills passed by the two branches of Congress.

Knowland said it is "the hope of everyone, including the President, that the conferees may modify the bill, which we believe is unworkable in many respects in its present form."

In reply to a question, Knowland said Benson himself concurred in the view that the bill as it passed the Senate is unworkable.

Asked whether Eisenhower also feels that way about the measure, Knowland replied he would not attempt to speak for the President.

The vote on passage was 93-2. That was no measure of the angry criticism raised against the election year measure. No one in the Senate seemed fully happy with the bill, much of it pieced together on the Senate floor.

Democrats, pointing to a five-year decline in farm prices, have already emphasized the farm issue as a major one in the 1956 campaign.

The Senate bill contains authority for a soil bank, the major 1955 recommendation of the Eisenhower administration. But several provisions of the program, designed to take land out of production and thus reduce surpluses, were subjected to major revision.

And while the bill nominally retains the administration's flexible price support system, that system was supplemented by a "two-price" plan for rice, a similar optional one for wheat, and hedged in by "set asides" which would have the effect of boosting sharply the price supports for wheat, corn and cotton.

Final action at about 10:30 p. m. last night followed eight straight days of voting, during which debate was limited, and 11 days of unrestricted debate before that.

Senators Bush (R-Conn.) and Flanders (R-Vt.) cast the only "no" votes. Sen. Ives (R-NY), said by aides to have suffered a stomach upset earlier, was the only senator who did not vote.

Senate passage moved the bill to the House, expected to act promptly to send it to a Senate-House conference committee assigned the thorny task of working out a compromise.

Last May the House, over administration objections, voted to support prices of basic crops at 90 per cent of parity and those of parity. Parity is a standard set of parity. Parity is a standard set of parity. Parity is a standard set of parity.

The Senate rejected rigid 90 per cent price props for basic crops. On dairy products, its bill is similar to the House.

The House did not consider the soil bank nor many of the other provisions in the Senate bill. Since the planting season has already begun in some areas, the administration has been urging speedy action.

Secret Talks Held About State Hospital

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A former official of the State Hospital was called into a secret conference between the mental institution's Board of Control and Gov. Orval Faubus yesterday, but his presence at the session remains a mystery.

The board is seeking successors to two hospital officials, who resigned following the public release by Faubus of complaints which the governor claimed to have received about operations of the facility.

L. C. Lewallen of Malvern, who was food service manager at the hospital until a few months ago, accompanied Faubus. Chairman Glen Hendrix to the closed conference. Neither Faubus nor members of the Board would comment about what was discussed.

Little Damage in House Fire

Firemen were called to a Negro residence on North Graham about mid-morning Tuesday but the blaze had been extinguished before they arrived. Very little damage was caused in the kitchen of the house, firemen said, indicating the fire started from the kitchen stove.

PSC Rate Hint May Hit Fort Smith Factory

LITTLE ROCK, (Special) — The Arkansas Public Service Commission's March 13 invitation to Arkansas gas companies to review their industrial rates with an eye to bringing them up to the 17 1/2 cents per MCF minimum granted to Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., may provide a way for the Fort Smith Gas Company, a W. R. Stephens-owned enterprise, to end a 15 cents per MCF contract long held by the Harding Glass Co.

The PSC's copy of the agreement between Fort Smith and Harding Glass was missing from the agency's files and its termination date could not be ascertained. PSC officials said, however, that the preferential rate remained undisturbed when Fort Smith received PSC approval of a 19 1/2 cent rate increase, including a 19 1/2 cent tariff for other industrial consumers.

The letter from the PSC's attorney, John R. Thompson, to Fort Smith and the other gas companies operating in Arkansas mentioned "apprehension" over the high percentage of use by industrial customers and stated as of primary interest the protection of price and future supply of gas.

However, Fort Smith Gas, in its 1954 report to the PSC, the latest filed, showed residential sales totaling $1,052,338 that year, far outstripping those to all other consumers. Commercial and industrial sales together accounted for only $620,796, while Camp Chaffee and the state Tuberculosis Sanatorium paid another $66,632, under special contracts.

As for reserves, Fort Smith Gas holds a contract extending to Dec. 31, 1973, at 12.7819 cents per MCF (subject to upward revision), under which gas reserves are dedicated to its use and it has first option on new producing wells.

At this price, Fort Smith Gas in 1954 purchased 4,949,000 MCF of gas at a total cost of $632,800 from the Stephens Production Co., another W. R. Stephens operation. The contract is not one-sided in that Fort Smith Gas, in consideration of the dedication of all gas reserves, promised to purchase its entire requirement of gas and a minimum of 4,900,000 MCF annually from the production company, with a few small exceptions.

This situation, with Fort Smith Gas, the buyer, affiliated with Stephens Production Co., the seller, through the domination of both companies by Mr. Stephens, came about when in December, 1953, the PSC allowed Fort Smith Gas to acquire the gathering, transmission and distribution facilities of Arkansas-Oklahoma Gas Co. and Arkansas-Oklahoma to abandon operations. At the same time it approved the new gas supply contract. It took the Federal Power Commission until March 1, 1954, to okay the transaction, and one reason for the delay is glimpsed in a copy of a brief filed by Fort Smith Gas in answer to a memorandum from the FPC staff.

The federal agency raised the question of whether the cost of producing gas might not be increased over the contract price at some future date whereupon a rate increase would be inevitable. The applicant, Fort Smith Gas, answered:

Sunday Morning in New England Church Bells Echo, You Put Down the Papers, Go to Church

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a Sunday morning in New England, and very hushed and still. From time to time, a car with clinking chains sloshed through the little town. A freight train whistled in the distance, and another answered sweet and serene. Still another again, and the lonely quiet.

Suddenly, like a sunburst of music, the church bells began ringing.

The tones came rolling down the street, across the Common, glistering with snow, bouncing between the buildings, jostling each other in a wonderful din and clanging.

One was a merry little bell, all crystal and silver. Another was sweet and serene. Still another spoke with deep-throated authority, a serious, hard-working bell. I put down the Sunday paper, the floor of my hotel room al-

Refuses to Dismiss Suit to Ban Dog Races

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski Chancellor Sam Rorex refused today to dismiss a suit which seeks to prohibit dog racing at West Memphis.

Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry, whom the Arkansas Racing Commission Saturday sought to oust as its legal counsel, represented the commission at the brief hearing. No one else tried to speak for the commission.

The suit was brought by four West Memphis residents against the Racing Commission. It seeks to have the commission cancel a permit under which Southland Racing Corp. would be allowed to race dogs at its new million dollar West Memphis plant.

As the commission's lawyer, Gentry filed a motion to dismiss the suit. Today's hearing was on that motion only. Rorex overruled the motion.

The chancellor also instructed the plaintiffs to amend their complaint to make Southland a defendant. He described Southland — and not the commission — as "the real party of interest" in the matter.

The commission was given 20 days in which to answer the complaint of the West Memphis residents.

Gentry himself brought up the matter of the commission's attempt to dismiss him.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Southland dog track issue returns to the courts today, and state Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry says he'll appear as official counsel for the state Racing Commission which has "fired" him.

A hearing on the suit filed by four Crittenden County residents, who have attacked the state's 21 year-old dog racing law as unconstitutional, opened in Pulaski Chancery Court here today.

Yesterday, the Racing Commission formally dismissed Gentry as its representative in the fight to keep Southland Racing Corp. from opening its new dog track at West Memphis.

The commission, claiming that it is "obvious that the views of the attorney general are not in harmony with those of this commission," said it intended to "employ an attorney of our own selection to prosecute our appeal at the personal expense of the individual members."

Gentry replied that he would "fulfill the duties imposed on me by the Legislature." Under law, the attorney general is the official counsel for any state agency involved in litigation.

Negroes to Trial in Boycott Case

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The state planned to present new testimony today in an effort to show that a 27-year-old Negro minister conspired to clamp a crippling boycott on city buses here.

On trial in Circuit Court is the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., the first of 90 Negro leaders called to answer indictments resulting from the 16-week-old protest against racial segregation.

Mrs. Erna Dunjee, the last witness to testify at the opening of the trials yesterday, is expected to be recalled to the stand today.

Mrs. Dunjee is financial secretary of the Montgomery Improvement Association, a newly formed Negro organization which the state says is headed by King. Prosecuting attorneys are trying to establish the organization's role in the bus boycott.

Extended Forecast

Tough Going Ahead for Foreign Aid

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's $4,859,975,000 foreign aid program faced the prospect of major alterations today as it started through Congress.

"That's too much," said Chairman Richards (D-SC), whose House Foreign Affairs Committee launched what promised to be long hearings on the aid program.

Objections already have arisen in the Senate over the size and form of the program, particularly a request for authority to make long-range commitments.

Richards questioned the overall amount of the program, submitted to Congress in a special message yesterday. He also challenged the wisdom of making 10 year advance commitments to assist underdeveloped countries in long-term economic projects.

He said he thought it would be better for Congress to state its intention to continue the aid program without committing itself to any stated amount for a specific number of years.

Eisenhower asked for authority to spend up to one billion dollars over the next 10 years — a rate of 100 millions annually — on long-range development projects abroad.

Idle Acres in Southwest Going to Work

Most all of the Counties in Southwest Arkansas are reporting that many acres of idle, or waste land, is being planted in Pine Seedlings.

Most farmers have some land that has worn out, badly eroded, or that is too poor to produce row crop or even grass for pasture. When this type of land is planted in trees, it not only starts growing a new crop of timber, but the trees themselves start helping to stop erosion.

When this is done, of course, the natural process of improving the soil takes place. In other words, when mankind has gone as far with the land as he can, nature takes over and starts rebuilding, producing a future merchantable crop.

It is hoped that these planted forests will escape the ever threatening grass and brush fires that make visits to a lot of farms during the month of March and April. In fact, throughout the years, if we had left a few seed trees, and controlled the wild fires on our farms, our woods lots would be producing a regular crop of timber instead of being in the dormant, loafing stage that it is today.

Much progress has been made in controlling fires on the farms in the past ten years, but it is still amazing at the number of people that put forth very little effort to keep fire out of their Woods Lots.

Minnesota to Vote on Adlai and Kefauver

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Election officials reported "fair" to "brisk" early voting today as Minnesotans went to the polls under ideal spring weather conditions in the state question mark presidential primary.

Spot checks established no definite early trend for voting volume in either city or rural areas. St. Paul voters, also balloting in a municipal election, turned out in heavy numbers soon after the polls opened. Early voting was reported at a slower pace in Minneapolis. Most farm areas reported relatively light early voting.

For the Democrats, it's Adlai E. Stevenson against Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, the man Stevenson bowled over at the national convention four years ago on the way to a presidential nomination he said he never sought.

This time he is seeking convention votes—30 of them from Minnesota. So is Kefauver.

For the Republicans, it is President Eisenhower, winning without running or hoisting a foot. He will get 28 votes at the GOP convention next August.

Sen. William F. Knowland of California is in the GOP primary in name only. He hopped out of Eisenhower's way after the President said "Yes" on a second term, but not in time to get his name off the Minnesota ballot.

Blizzards Hit Much of East, 141 Left Dead

By The Associated Press

The blizzard-battered Northeast fought to dig out from under a crippling mass of snow today on the first day of spring.

A blizzard born in West Virginia Sunday whistled up the New England coast early today. It was expected to end in Maine before noon.

The New York area lay smothered under more than a foot of snow after the storm moved on. The storm followed in the tracks of another blizzard that swept the Northeast Friday night. The double assault hit a 14-state area and caused at least 141 deaths, most in traffic accidents or from overexertion in shoveling snow.

The state-by-state death toll in both storms: New York 30, New Jersey 26, Connecticut 13, Rhode Island 10, Massachusetts 25, New Hampshire 1, Maine 6, Pennsylvania 7, Delaware 1, Maryland 3, Virginia 4 and Ohio 12.

Up to 20 inches of new snow tumbled down on parts of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine had less than 10 inches.

Thousands of commuters were stranded, whole communities were isolated and coastal lowlands flooded by high tides.

Drifting snow and stalled automobiles blocked roads throughout southern New England.

Rail transportation was limited, and bus service was at a standstill. Boston's Logan Airport was shut down at least until this afternoon.

New Jersey's rural counties and eastern Long Island were buried under huge drifts. A state of emergency was declared in some communities.

In Massachusetts, Cape Cod suffered the full force of both storms. More than 100 persons were evacuated at Barnstable because of high tides. The islands of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket were cut off from transportation to the mainland.

FIRST WOMAN JUROR, DIES — FORT SMITH, (AP) — Dr. Minnie Sanders Armstrong, reportedly the first woman juror in the United States, died at her home here Sunday. She was 85.

In April 1890 shortly before she moved to Fort Smith, Dr. Armstrong served on a trial jury at Anna Hill. The presence of a doctor on the jury was required and she was the only physician in town. She is believed to be the first woman to serve on a jury.

'Dry' Millwood to Be Recommended by U.S. Engineers at Hearing

Water District President Assures Millwood Issue to Be Taken to Public Hearing

TEXARKANA (Special) — Charles Conway, president of the Southwest Arkansas Water District, issued the following statement at noon today:

"We noted in this morning's Texarkana Gazette that the division office of the Corps of Engineers at Dallas, Texas, had submitted their report to the Chief of Engineers and the Board of Rivers & Harbors concerning the development of the Little River Valley Basin.

"We note that the report recommends the building of the upstream dams and Millwood dam. We take no exception to the construction of the upstream dams, and we feel that the inclusion of water for municipal, industrial and agricultural purposes for the people of Oklahoma and the people around Dierks, Gillham and DeQueen will aid in the future development of these areas.

"However, the Southwest Arkansas Water District does not agree that Millwood should be 'dry.' Since the engineers state that Millwood dam must be constructed in order to have flood control, failure to place water in the reservoir for the people in southwest Arkansas is in our opinion short-sighted and will deny our people and their children the opportunity of future municipal, agricultural and industrial expansion and growth.

"Representatives of the Southwest Arkansas Water District in conference with Corps of Engineers in Tulsa and with the chief of Army Engineers' office in Washington were assured that a water supply in Millwood dam for our municipal, industrial and agricultural needs is feasible. We have been assured that there are no engineering objections to placing water in the reservoir. If millions of dollars are going to be spent by the government on Millwood dam, it appears to us to be wasteful of both money and natural resources to make it a 'dry' dam, and not realize the advantages that are possible by including water for our purposes in the reservoir. We will accept the invitation of the Board of Rivers & Harbors to present our views to them in order that we may place before that body the needs of the people of this area.

The Southwest Arkansas Water District, representing the local interests of southwest Arkansas, will continue to work to obtain for the people of our area water supplies that we will need in the future."

Spring Comes But Only on Calendar

By United Press

Spring arrived at 9:21 a. m. (CST) today, but a look at the calendar was the only indication that the season had come to Arkansas.

Sub-freezing temperatures were reported in most of the state early today. The forecast said, however, that it would be warmer this afternoon and tonight and in the east and south portions Wednesday, but cooler next Friday and again about Sunday. Scattered showers were forecast for Wednesday.

The extended forecast — Tuesday through Sunday — said that temperatures will average near the normal maximum of 66 degrees and the normal minimum of 44. A slow rising trend is expected until cooler next Thursday or Friday and again about Sunday. Precipitation for the period will be light to moderate in showers Wednesday and Thursday.

Highs this afternoon will be mainly in the low and mid 50's, and lows tonight in the 30's except in the high 20's to mid 30's in the northeast portion.

Highs yesterday ranged from 63 at Dardanelle to 42 at Flipping. Lows this morning were 17 at Gilbert, 20 at Batesville, 21 at Newport, 22 at Fayetteville, 23 at Flipping, 25 at Morrilton and Mountain Home, 26 at Walnut Ridge and Camden, 27 at Pine Bluff and El Dorado, 30 at Dardanelle, Fort Smith, Hot Springs and Little Rock, and 33 at Texarkana.

At 11:30 a. m., the skies were clear over the entire state.

Malenkov Also Jumps on Stalin

By EDNA GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Former Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov says the present Kremlin command has "cleaned up" Russia and that a Stalin dictatorship can never rise again in his homeland.

Malenkov, now Soviet minister of power stations, was a dinner guest of labor members of Parliament last night and was reported to have given his views on the Soviet situation in a two-hour question and answer period.

Richard Crossman, one of the hosts, told reporters Malenkov "repeatedly said, 'We have cleaned up Russia.'"

"He tried to impress on us that we need not worry," Crossman said, "that they had stopped dictatorship. That they had stopped the wicked things."

"He said very, very clearly it could not happen again, that collective government now has been firmly established and that dictatorship could not return."

"I cannot say how many of us were convinced," Crossman added, "but he certainly tried hard."

Stiff Opposition Expected Before Final Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — A system of seven flood control dams on the Little River in Arkansas and Oklahoma with a "dry" dam at the controversial Millwood site, will be recommended by the U. S. Engineers.

The engineers yesterday notified members of the Arkansas congressional delegation that they will make the recommendation to the Corps' commanding officer and the Board of Rivers and Harbors. The board views such reports as a fore they are submitted to Congress.

Millwood would be on the only "dry" dam in the system if the "engineers" proposal is approved. That means that under normal conditions, the dam would remain open preventing formation of a reservoir.

The other six dams each would form a small reservoir to provide a water capacity for the entire system totaling 1,000,000 acre feet. In addition, Millwood would be closed during times of flood to hold back water on 1,667,000 acre feet.

Millwood originally was planned as a "wet" dam with reservoir covering 2,208,000 acre feet. In addition, Millwood would be closed during times of flood to hold back water on 1,667,000 acre feet.

However, earlier this year an area's resident who favors the original plan organized a "Water District to Fight for a Wet Dam" Organization. The water district demanded the reservoir be closed to provide water for farms, cities and industries which locate in the area.

In addition to their flood control capacities, the six smaller reservoirs, under the modified plan, would provide additional water

Norrell Seeks Data on Spa Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — With conflicting information coming from the Army and Defense Department Rep. Norrell (D-Ark) said today he hopes to require by legislation that the Army-Navy Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., be operated next year.

High defense officials notified Norrell and Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) some weeks ago that Congress would be asked to provide funds for the hospital in the year starting July 1.

However, Army Secretary Brucker said last week that he personally opposed continued operation of the hospital.

This conflict left uncertain the fate of the hospital, which the Army has sought to close for several years.

As a result, Norrell said today, he will ask the House Armed Services Appropriations Committee to write into the Defense Department money bill a requirement that the hospital be continued in operation for the year beginning July 1.

PSC Rate Hint

ed it this way.

"The (FPC) staff expresses concern that under the terms of the gas purchase contract Mr. Stephens can assure himself of a continued return on his investment. Any increase in the cost of gas (by Mr. Stephens' partnership) must be paid by Fort Smith.

"Thus for Mr. Stephens to assure himself of a return Fort Smith must collect any increase in the cost of gas from the ultimate consumer. Chairman Robinson of the Arkansas Public Service Commission pointed out at the hearing 'The Arkansas Public Service Commission will have authority over the rates to be charged by Fort Smith Gas Corporation to consumers; and indirectly if not directly over the price paid by Fort Smith Gas Company for gas acquired from an affiliate.'"

The gas supply contract provides for renegotiation of the contract price on 90 days' notice from the sellers to the buyer and for appointment of a three-man arbitration panel if necessary. The new price cannot go below the 12.7819 rate fixed in the original contract.

The Arkansas Public Service Commission, if faced with an increase in the contract price at which the Stephens-owned Fort Smith Gas Company purchases its supply from Stephens Production Company—a price increase over which the PSC would have no control—might just conceivably grant Fort Smith Gas some rate increases.

The PSC did just that for the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company

U. S. Supports France in Algeria Plan

PARIS (UP) — Ambassador C. Douglas Dillon announced full U. S. support today for France's emergency program to pacify terror-ridden Algeria.

Dillon told French diplomatic correspondents he wanted to clear up any possible misunderstanding about America's attitude toward the Algerian crisis.

"The United States stands solidly behind France in her search for a liberal and equitable solution of the problems in Algeria," he said.

The U. S. ambassador's statement aligned the Western Big Three with Premier Guy Mollet's "get tough" policy in Algeria. British support for the Mollet program was announced earlier this month.

Algeria Minister Robert Lacoste clapped a virtual ban on native travel to and from Algeria today as the latest move in the French campaign to stamp out guerrilla warfare in the big overseas province.

A new new decree provides that the only persons who may come or go freely are foreign diplomats and French soldiers, government workers, newsmen and businessmen.

Anyone else desiring to enter or leave Algeria must obtain special permission from Lacoste's office—and it appears certain that few permits will be issued to native Algerians.

Thousands of Algerian migrants recently have been flocking home from France, apparently on orders from the guerrillas. The new decree apparently is intended to halt this traffic.

Lacoste had previously ordered thousands of reinforcements here to strengthen France's hand for an all-out drive against the Algerians whose activities caused 28 deaths and injury to at least 15 persons in Algeria yesterday.

French troopships landed nearly 2,500 men in Algerian ports during the day.

Additional troops are being flown in from Europe, where France has reduced her Atlantic pact army almost to the vanishing point, and from French West Africa.

French warships are patrolling the coast, apparently in hopes of intercepting gunrunners serving the guerrillas.

Casualties of yesterday's fighting included five French troops killed and five wounded in a guerrilla ambush 30 miles south of Constantine, and 10 civilians wounded by a bomb thrown into a Jewish cafe. The other 23 dead were guerrillas killed in clashes with French troops.

Elderly Negro Dies in Fire

PINE BLUFF (AP) — An elderly Negro died today when he returned to his burning house in a futile effort to save money he was buying as treasurer of his Sunday school class.

Sheriff Harold Norton identified the victim as John Wesley Williams, about 80, who lived on the Guy Sullivant plantation four miles south of here.

Williams' wife Minnie told Norton that she and her husband fled from the 4-room frame structure when it caught fire from a stove pipe. Her husband dashed back into the burning house to get the Sunday school class treasury, she said.

The sheriff said Mrs. Williams did not know how much money was involved. No trace of the money was found in the ashes.

Corner Frank Reed ruled the death due to fire, although Williams' head bore a skull fracture as if from a fall. Sullivant said Williams had been subject to heart attacks.

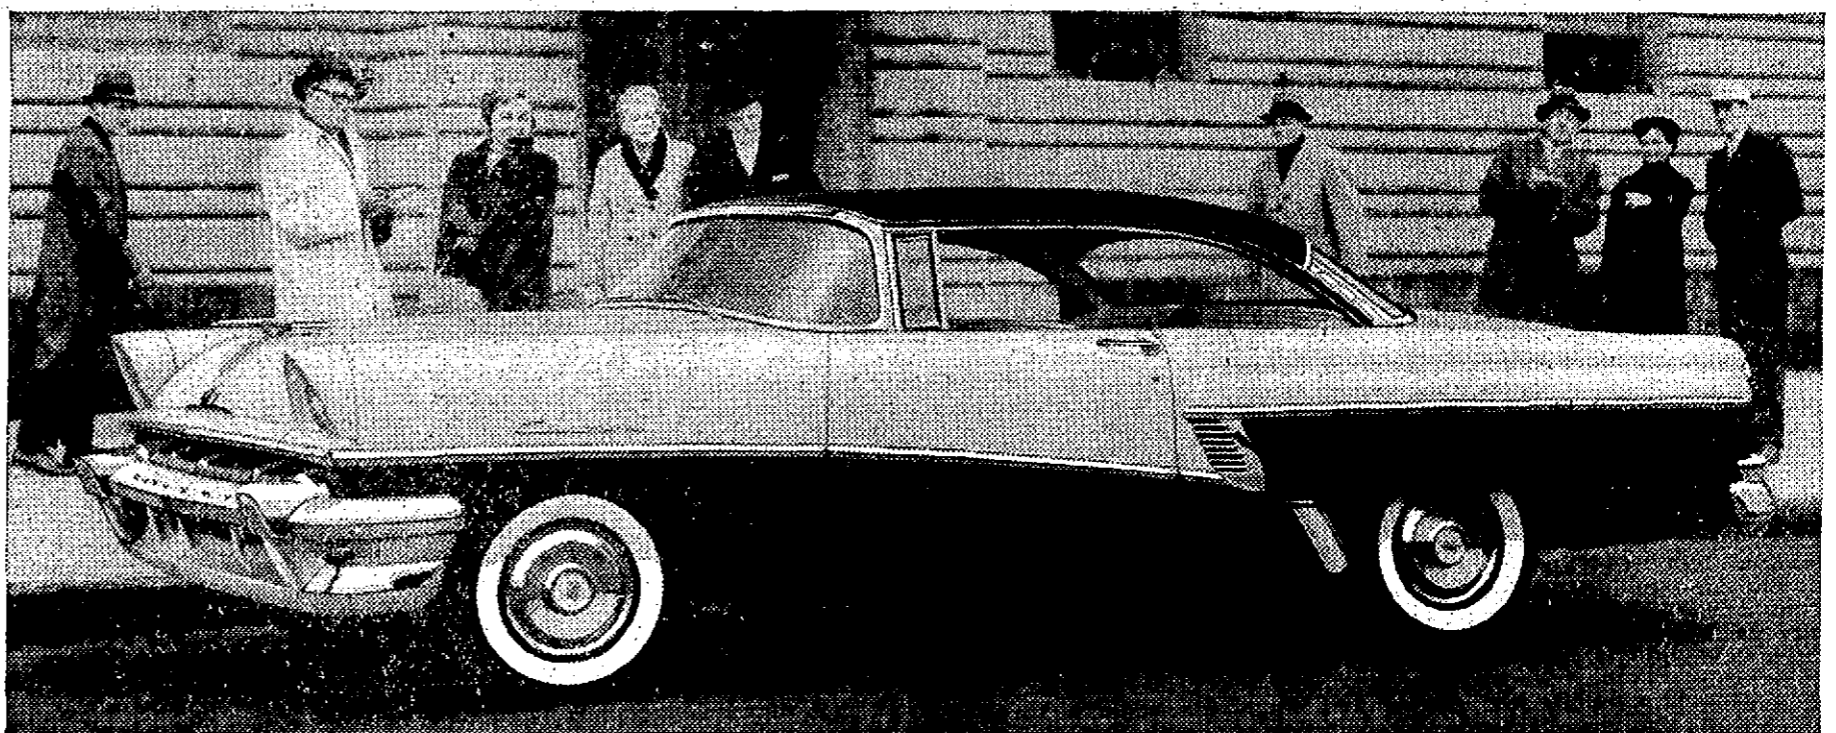

Although 1700, 1800 and 1900 were not leap years, 2000 will be a leap year.

DOROTHY DIX

Man's Irregular Hours Are Getting Wife Down

Dear Miss Dix: In all my 33 years this is the first letter of its kind I've ever written. If you think I'm selfish, say so; if I'm just being a soft mark, you'll tell me that, too.

My marriage has existed for 10 quarrelsome years. We have one son. My husband is a salesman, recently promoted, so his hours are anything but steady. He frequently has evening meetings, out-of-town conventions and is, in fact, seldom home. I don't suspect infidelity. My gripe is that I'm always alone, never go out, am told to make a life of my own, but how can I with a child? Everything is business.

We do have a nice home, which I guess is on the credit side, and my husband is generous. I have everything except a husband.

I can't depend on his arrival for dinner. When he does come home, it's to relax. I'm dying to go out; he wants to watch TV. He admits he's lazy, is glad he has a soft job and doesn't expect to exert himself at it. I help him by writing reports, typing letters, etc. In other words, he has freedom. I have nothing. This dissatisfaction is making me so irritable I'm almost sick. What can be done?

POPPY Answer: Extracting the meat from your very long, disjointed letter was quite a job, but it seems to boil down to the fact that your husband has a flexible job at which he does very well, combining business with the pleasure he gets from meeting people. You, on the other hand, are imprisoned with bonds largely of your own making and deeply resent your husband's life which, to you, seems absolutely carefree.

When a man reaches the upper income bracket, in which he can provide well for his family, he usually enjoys his job. Men seldom succeed at work they find tedious or frustrating. Your man tells you about his work, which is a good thing and more than many men do. You share quite a bit of it, through the clerical work you do, and have no worry about his loyalty. Your problem is simply one of adjustment to an irregular working schedule.

If he went to work at 9 and came home at 5, you'd be happy because you would be conforming to tradition. Because your schedule is uncertain, even erratic, you are greatly disturbed.

Make Three Lists Take a piece of paper, mark it off into three columns. In one write the advantages of your marriage in another the disadvantages and in the third, what you can do about them. There will be few items in the second, if you're honest with yourself.

Your son is old enough to be left with a sitter, your income can provide one, your standing in the community warrants social and civic obligations — get out and fulfill them. For a starter, there's Civic Defense, P. T. A., constant charity drives that need help.

Work with people instead of feeling so analytically sorry for yourself. Face the fact that without a lowering of income you can't change your husband's job. Shake off the lethargy you admit you have get busy and you'll live with your husband in having interesting stories to tell.

Dear Miss Dix: I have a daughter 3 and a boy of 1 1/2. The baby is very curious and quite destructive while the older child is quiet and reserved. I manage all right at home, but when we visit my parents our son always seems particularly active. The older folks prefer girls and make no bones about showing favoritism. I'm a nervous wreck when I leave their house. We're expected to visit one day a week, but it's really getting to much for me.

MABEL Answer: Sounds like my year-and-a-half-old grandson. Since the baby makes you feel uncomfortable at your parents' home, tell them you're going to postpone visits until he becomes a bit more adaptable and manageable. It will take another year. If they want you, they must show equal affection to both children. The situation now is making nervous wrecks out of you and the children. It's not worth it.

'Phone Rate Hike Hearing Opened

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A hearing on Western Arkansas Telephone Co.'s request for an annual rate increase of $45,585 open yesterday before the state Public Service Commission here.

Company officials told the PSC that the boost is needed to offset increased labor costs. The firm's current rates bring in about $468,000 yearly, they said.

The company's three dial exchanges wouldn't be affected by the rate boost. They are at Scranton, London and Hector.

Exchanges where the higher rates would be put into effect are Atkins, Booneville, Clarksville, Coal Hill, Dardanelle, Dover, Hartman, Lamar, Paris, Pottsville, Russellville, Ratcliff and Subiaco.

3-Hour Movie Termed a Big Success

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—We have just completed a week of distinguished television programming. Look at the record.

On Sunday, March 11, NBC-TV presented the American premiere of Sir Laurence Olivier's great British film "Richard III," a three-hour production which attracted many million more viewers than did everything else combined on the screen in those hours.

On Tuesday, March 13, Edward R. Murrow's See It Now (CBS-TV) offered an excellent, fair-minded study of the Egyptian-Israeli crisis.

On Wednesday came "The Twisted Cross" on NBC-TV, a documentary, largely in film, of Nazi Germany.

On Sunday there appeared an excellent dramatization of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" on NBC-TV. On the same day CBS-TV presented a searching and dramatic study of the nature of mental illness, a documentary film entitled "Out of Darkness."

Two Shakespeares and three documentaries may not strike some as great diversity, but the over-all effect on anyone who saw all the programs could not fail to impress. Even a year ago two major networks were not engaging in such imaginative programming.

Each of these programs was good in a different way and to compare them can be fallacious. Not all were equally popular with the public. But holding in mind the weaknesses implicit in all TV audience ratings, a measure of the popular success of the first three is available. At this writing there are no returns on the two Sunday programs.

"Richard III" was a tremendous success, according to the Trendex returns. Murrow's study of the Egyptian-Israeli crisis trailed in third place compared to regularly scheduled programs on the other networks, Trendex reported.

TALE OF A DACHSHUND CHICAGO, (UP)—Police Capt. William Hennessy yesterday told with a touch of the Blarney the story about how a German dachshund got lost during the St. Patrick's day parade Saturday.

The dog, named Fritzie, slipped his leash and went high-tailing after the marchers, Hennessy said.

Freddie's owners had thought him lost but the dog turned up later at the home of Thomas Leahy, Hennessy said. "Leahy was having a spot of McNamara's Band" on his phonograph when in the house came Fritzie," he said.

Jockey Craig Boots Home 16th Winner

HOT SPRINGS, Mo. — Oaklawn Park's champion jockey in 1954, Edward Craig, is well on his way toward regaining the track's riding championship, which eluded him last year when he was hampered by an injury.

Craig booted home three winners yesterday to boost his total for the first 20 days of Oaklawn's season to 16, four more than the second place leader, John Rotz.

The veteran reinsman from Springfield, Ohio, took over the reins last Tuesday when he scored four straight winners.

Craig's first place mounts yesterday were Seeping Flag, $5, in the third; Pacemaker, $3.40, in the fourth; and Tiger Flame, $3.80, in the eighth.

Today's feature, the $2,400 Hot Springs Sentinel, Record Purse, matched seven scholar sprinters in a thrilling allowance dash.

Guymon Lad, the 4-year-old gelding owned by Carl Craig, looked up as an early favorite to register his second triumph in five Oaklawn outings.

Guymon Lad was pitted against some of the best horses he defeated earlier. Today he carried topweight of 126 pounds, nine more than he carried in his winning effort.

Others in the short field were

CURB-SIDE VACUUM CLEANER—Streets in Washington, D.C., are being cleaned these days by an ingenious device with a tremendous appetite for rubbish. It's a Jeep with a six-inch suction hose that snuffs up the day's accumulation of litter, chews it to bits and then blows the pulp into the burlap bag at the rear. Department of Sanitation officials designed the outfit, shown here in front of the Capitol. It cleans the gutters about six times as fast as the traditional white-wing with a broom and pushcart.

White Spot Farm's entry of Hy-111-Go and Nymph's Pride, G. R. White's Lucky William, E. W. Wise's Mr. Dink, E. W. Haynes' Texas Plains and J. Kel Houssel's Kingley. All were assigned 112 pounds, except Texas Plains who got in with only 110.

Lucky William was a close second to Guymon Lad when the latter posted his only victory. Kingley, Mr. Dink, Nymph's Pride and Texas Plains were also rans in the same race.

Morton Whitebrook's Longone won his second race of the season yesterday when he captured the $2,500 Walnut Ridge Purse in a finish that saw three horses blanketed at the wire. Mrs. J. L. Oglesby's Dutch Wyatt was second by a nose, and in turn was a nose ahead of Charles Frit's March Brat.

Murder Trial Opens at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Mo. — The trial of William A. Downen, 28, on a charge of first degree murder in the slaying of his teenage step-daughter is scheduled to open in Circuit Court here April 5. Downen is accused of beating 14-year-old Martha Jackson to death with a rock at their home in the nearby Ragwood Valley community last October. Prosecutor H. A. Tucker has said that Downen admitted the crime and led officers to an abandoned well where the girl's body was found. However, defense attorney Earl Lane has entered a plea of innocent.

Division Team Title Goes to Pine Bluff

LITTLE ROCK, Mo. — Pine Bluff sent two fighters to compete in the Open Division of the annual AAU boxing tournament, and the pair of classy punchers took the division team championship home with them.

Both Alfred Gibson, a 126-pounder, and light heavyweight Bobby Fowler won their final matches last night to tally four points and give the team title to Pine Bluff. Parkin, which handily won the Novice Division team championship with second with three points.

Parkin rang up 12 points in novice competition to seven for runner-up Subiaco. Little Rock was third with six points, followed by Fort Smith with five.

All but two of last night's 16 final bouts went the distance. The only knockout was scored by Royce Smith of Parkin, who stopped Walter Archie of Little Rock in 24 seconds of the first round to win the 135-pound novice crown.

In the Open Division, Murrell Lee of Parkin won the 147-pound title with a TKO over Darrell Williams of Fort Smith in 128 of the second round.

Hints Cotton Belt Petition May Get Okay

AUSTIN, Tex. (M) —The Railroad Commission has indicated it may be forced to grant Cotton Belt railroad's petition to abandon its last passenger service in Texas.

At a hearing yesterday on arguments against the discontinuance, Commissioner Olin Culberson said the commission has denied the petitions three times in the past and had been "slapped down" by the courts.

The courts have held that the question of whether passenger trains service is a public necessity is not a factor, under the law. It's a question of whether the train schedules are losing money and whether anything can be done about it, the courts said.

The Cotton Belt claims it is losing money on its last two passenger trains in Texas, operating between Dallas and Texarkana and serving a number of east Texas cities. Charles Wine, Texarkana attorney for a number of protesting east Texas groups, urged the commission yesterday to deny the discontinuance petition. He said the railroad was making money "out of freight and was trying to get rid of all its passenger trains."

Woman 93, Joins Cast for a Movie

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Adeline DeWalt Reynolds can recall as a girl seeing soldiers pass her Iowa farm, in route home from the Civil War.

Today at 93, she's still performing in movies and must certainly be the world's oldest regularly employed actress.

"People think you're supposed to fold up because you've passed the 90 mark," she says. "I don't believe in that."

She backs up her words by leading an active life. She goes to night school twice weekly to learn Spanish, because she feels anyone who lives in California should know that language.

She also does roles in movies and TV films, her most notable one recently being "The 10 Commandments."

"I was one of the children of Israel crossing the Red Sea," she recalled in her Hollywood biography. "They gave me a tall, weak-looking actor and said he would help me across. He was so weak I had to help him across!"

Mrs. Reynolds' remarkable life began in 1862 on her parents' farm near Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

She married a magician who "trotted off to heaven" when their four children were still young.

Mrs. Reynolds settled with her brood in Berkeley, Calif., and went into secretarial business in San Francisco. She managed to rear her children and send them out into the world. Then she decided to do the things she had always wanted. She enrolled at the University of California at 64 and graduated with high honors.

"Then I decided to try acting," she said.

She visited top agents in Hollywood and was "practically thrown out of their offices." Finally she found one who would handle her. She started her acting career at 77 in "Come Live With Me" with James Stewart and Hedy Lamarr.

Mrs. Reynolds has played dozens of roles since then. Her most notable was as Betty Fitzgerald's mother in "Going My Way." But her favorite was as a native woman in "Tuttle of Tahiti" with Charles Laughton.

Red Leaders Sidestepping Stalin Issue

BY TOM WHITNEY

NEW YORK (AP)—One question raised in Russian denials by Nikita Khrushchev's denunciation of Stalin is what the present Communist boss and his Kremlin colleagues were doing while Stalin terrorized the nation.

The political future of the present Soviet leaders quite possibly depends on the skill with which they answer this—and on the ultimate conclusion which Soviet citizens reach.

Khrushchev has already made an effort to sidestep this question

Integration Developments in the South

By The Associated Press

The uneasy South once again looked to troubled Alabama today for developments in the tense segregation situation.

At Montgomery, 93 Negro leaders go on trial on charges of directing the 16-week-old boycott of the city bus system in a passive resistance move. Negro leaders are watching with special interest.

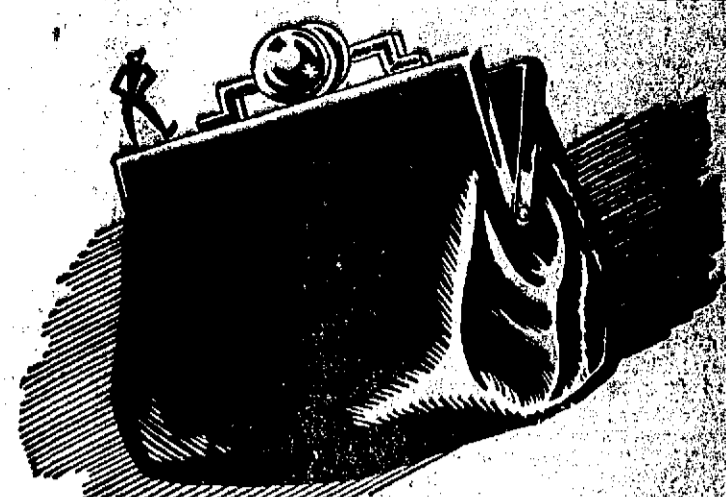

In Tuscaloosa, two Negro brothers were called to trial on charges of beating a white University of Alabama student because of resentment over treatment of Autherine Lucy, expelled Negro coed. Spokesmen for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have said outcome by declaring that he and Stalin's other subordinates were in fear of their lives. He says they never knew where the next blow was going to fall, never knew when they went in to see Stalin whether they'd come out alive.

But it's not certain that the Russian people will accept this as completely satisfactory explanation.

A key question is whether Soviet citizens may not, as a result of the revelations of Stalin's crimes and blunders, come to a more or less unanimous conclusion that they'd prefer to be ruled by they'd prefer to be associated with the old dictator.

of the Montgomery boycott may determine whether similar moves should be made elsewhere. Twenty-five ministers were among those charged by the grand jury as leaders of active participants in the bus boycott, which began Dec. 5 in protest against segregated seating required by city and state law.

Podres Starts Life in Navy

BAINBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—Johnny
Podres, the Brooklyn Dodgers' 1955
World Series hero, found Navy life—at least the bunks—a little too "soft" as he began his training here today.

The 23-year-old miner's son from Witherbee, N. Y., arrived at the Bainbridge Naval Training Center about 11:30 p. m. last night following induction in New York.

Along with other recruits, he went through about 2 1/2 hours of processing.

About 2 a. m. he made his bed and made a hasty entry only to jump right out again.

"It's too soft," he told Pete
Sam Demeter, CSC, duty chief of the recruiting unit. "Do you have a board I could put under the mattress?"

Demeter said he didn't, but suggested Podres could sleep on a nearby wooden table if he desired.
Johnny accepted the invitation.

He put his mattress and bed clothes atop the table and climbed in for his first Navy snooze.

It was a short one, though, because he was up again at 4 a. m.
for more processing.

Podres, who beat the New York
Yankees twice in last fall's series, had previously been rejected for military service because of a back ailment. He said he had been used to sleep on a board.

Apparently some adjustments are in order if he is to maintain the habit.

Before setting a possible crack

Smear Stalin Drive Hits Trouble

By The Associated Press

The Kremlin campaign to deflate the myth of Stalin gathered momentum today on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Moscow itself was calm, but through the veil of censorship came reports of disturbances in the Georgian birthplace of the dead Soviet dictator.

Throughout the vast stretches of the Soviet Union, Communist activists spread the new line, first in meetings of the party's local leadership and then by word of mouth to an ever widening audience.

Outside the Iron Curtain Communist leaders were climbing aboard the new Red Bandwagon with strong denunciations or mild rebukes of the dead leader they once publicly venerated. But an undercurrent of confusion prevailed.

The Russian censorship did not permit correspondents to report a full account of the anti-Stalin campaign and reactions inside the Soviet Union. But their dispatches told a surprising amount. Reports of Western diplomats and travelers—particularly foreign Communist leaders returning to their homelands from the Soviet party's 20th Congress in Moscow—filled in other details. Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev kicked off the campaign Feb. 24 at the Congress. Reports said he accused Stalin of murdering thousands of his party associates and the flower of the Red army officer corps in the great purges of the 1930s and then committing incredible blunders in the war against Hitler. Khrushchev said further that Stalin lived in constant fear of plots and reacted by terrorizing his associates.

The Soviet party's new Central Committee put out a letter embodying the secret Khrushchev speech so the party faithful could spread the anti-Stalin line at meetings throughout the nation.

In Moscow, Stalin pictures and statues were disappearing from such public places as the Tchaikovsky Concert Hall, the Tretyakov Gallery and the Red army's Central Theater. Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, called for an acceleration of the reeducation campaign among the armed forces.

Red Star's position indicated that the army and Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov are strongly backing Khrushchev and his "collective leadership" in their efforts to deflate Stalin.

Student groups loyal to Stalin's memory demonstrated in the Georgian capital of Tiflis but few details seeped out.

The New York Times quoting diplomatic sources in the United States, said the Soviet government had imposed security measures

CHAPTER XX

Lisa Kyriakides came to a halt before the window of Anton's Dress Shop. Anton, the pseudo-Frenchman who quaranteed his high-paying clientele the latest fashions from Paris.

She drew a deep breath, tightened her lips to hold off the tears, then opened the door to Anton's and stepped into the deeply carpeted reception room.

Anton, dressed in stripes and cut-away, met her and bowed from the waist in recognition. She followed him past the ornate show-room where soft music accompanied a model parading before a customer. They turned into a long corridor past fitting and sewing rooms and into his office.

"Kindly be seated," Anton said in his high-pitched voice. "They will be here shortly." He bowed again and departed.

It started the day after the German entrance into Athens. Manolis Kyriakides, her husband and the father of her two children, had showed his true colors.

Lisa's father, a small factory owner, had defiantly refused to do business with the Germans. He had destroyed many patents the enemy sought.

This was what Manolis had been waiting for. Waiting since the day he had married Lisa. Within a week, Manolis gained control of the factory as the price for collaboration with the Germans. It was Manolis' information that sent Lisa's father to Averof Prison. The old man lived only a few weeks, refusing to divulge the patents.

At first, Manolis tried to deny his part. But Lisa knew the truth. Long ago she had learned his pattern of greed and ambition.

She took the children and left him and went into hiding in an apartment in Athens. Then she became one of the first to join the new Underground movement.

Inside a week, she was picked up by the Gsapo.

Her capture had been so swift that the Underground was unaware of it. They were unaware she was being forced to report to Zervos and Heilser. Zervos was the one who had concocted the charming scheme of holding her children as hostages.

At first she thought of suicide. But suicide would have endangered the lives of her children. Manolis was bound to outsmart himself sooner or later and he was too weak to raise a finger to save them. She could not sentence her own sons to death.

But she could not go on playing both sides. Avoiding Heilser's questions. Lying to them. Up to now she had not been followed, but how long would that continue?

And what if her own people learned of her dual role and she died at their hands as a traitor?

There was a way out . . . Manolis' way out.

The black staff car stopped in front of Anton's Dress Shop. Heilser and Zervos stepped out flanked by their bodyguards.

Lisa stood before them like a frozen statue.

"Well!" he snorted sharply.

"There is nothing to report. I have not been contacted."

"Now, let's stop his lying, Lisa," Heilser said.

"I have told you before, I am contacted each time by a person who uses a false name. I can never tell where or when I will be reached or for what purpose. I have not been contacted since you released me," she lied. "Perhaps they know I had been taken into custody."

"Do you wish us to bring the head of one of your sons on a plate the next visit?" Zervos barked.

This did not receive the reaction Zervos hoped for. Those women showed no trace of fear. "I intend to keep my bargain as long as you keep yours."

The pair were stopped cold in the face of Lisa's courage and calm.

"Wait outside," Heilser ordered Zervos.

The German paced back and forth, then seated himself at Anton's desk and gave her his most charming smile. Lisa remained

Crossett Mill Open to Public

CROSSETT, Ark. — The public, including 55 newsmen, will get its first look at The Crossett Co.'s new $16 million paper mill March 26-27.

The mill is the first to use a combination of pine and hardwood pulp to make food container boards. Grades of hardwood which previously had a very limited market will be utilized.

The plant went into production in January. It produces 150 tons of paper for milk cartons and paper cups.

It employs about 260 persons. The newsmen include Cedric Foster, network commentator who will originate two nationwide broadcasts from Radio Station KAGH here.
